ABOUT ME

They call me kmf (because they don't know how to pronounce Karen Mellott-Foshier). A former hockey mom in my fourth year as an emptynester, I offer 25+ years of experience as a journalist, corporate communications manager, writer, editor and social media strategist.

Currently offering the following contracted/freelance writing services: marketing communications, newsletter design and content, content strategy and execution, communications planning, social media marketing, SEO-rich website and intranet content, blog posts (WordPress and SharePoint savvy), press releases, email campaigns, marketing collateral, employee engagement, product launches, proposals, video scripts, writing, editing and proofreading.

As a social media microinfluencer, I offer experiential marketing services and collaborate with brand partners and affiliates on sponsored blog and social media posts, honest reviews about products, books, hotels, restaurants and attractions, event coverage, promotions and giveaways, guest-hosted Twitter chats, user-generated digital photos and videos, brand messaging and more.
